DUBLIN.

THE Lords Justices and Council having caused Letters to be sent to the High-Sheriffs of the several Counties, to give Notice to the Justices of Peace to meet and consult on the properest Methods for putting in Execution the Laws in being for preventing the Growth of Popery &c; the Justices of the County of Corke thought it their Duty to return the following Answer.

May it please your Excellencies and Lordships, IN Obedience to your Commands, and your Notice given us by our High Sheriff, we met at Mallow June 17th, and appointed another Meeting, that nothing might be wanting on our parts which tends to Her Majesty's Service. And although we have reason to believe that the Laws against unqualified Priests, and other Papists, have not been so strictly executed as they ought to have been; yet we are not conscious to our selves, that any Neglect in us, or want of Zeal for Her Majesty's Service, has at any time been the Occasion of it. For as often as we have received Information of any such Priests officiating in our County, we have taken due Care to issue our Warrants for the Apprehending of them: And when they have been executed, or any such Priests taken, we have committed them to our County Goal; and when convicted, have taken Care to reward those that were any wise active either in the discovery or taking of them. And when we could not get our Warrants executed, by reason of their absconding themselves, or the Cowardice or Corruption of the Constables employed in that Service, we then have constantly made Returns of the Informations taken by us into the Crown Office of our County, whereon Indictments have been found at the following Assizes; but we have not heard that many have been tried upon the said Indictments, when taken, nor that any Espias issued against those that were taken, much less that any of those Indictments were transmitted into the Queen's Bench, or the Criminals thereon Outlaw'd, as the Law directs, when they abscond.

We have also from time to time taken Care to have those Persons brought safely into our Goal, that have been Apprehended in our maritime Towns, for assisting others, or being assisted themselves, in the Service of the Pretender, or any foreign Prince; and have rewarded those that have been their Guard and brought them safely into Prison: And if those Men have not been punished afterwards, so as to deter others from committing the same Offence, we hope that the Fault is not to be imputed unto us, who have performed our Duty to the utmost of our Power and best of our Understanding.

We will endeavour to give Testimony to your Excellencies and Lordships, that our Behaviour shall be agreeable to the warmth with which you mind us of Her Majesty's Service; and always take Pleasure to submit to our selves your Excellencies and Lordships most obedient Servants.

London, July 21.

Yesterday arrived the Mail due from France.

From the Paris Gazette, dated July 28.

Madrid, July 9. 'Tis advised from Catalonia, that the Rebels to the Number of about 400 Men, having come out of the Llobregat towards Vich, possessed themselves of the important Pass of Sant Hippolyte on the Ter, and that Don Feliciano Bracamonte went and attacked them with a Detachment, though inferior in Number: That they stood the first Attack of the Grenadiers, but soon after betook themselves to flight in disorder, leaving several killed on the Spot, and separated themselves into divers Troops who took different Routes. The Marquis de Thoudy, Captain General, after having relieved the Castle of Berga, encamped at Girona; and the Count de Montemar marched from Cervera the 17th of last Month, to guard a Convoy of Provisions to Manresa.

From the Camp before Barcelona, July 10. The Inhabitants of Barcelona persist in their Obstinacy, notwithstanding the Extremity to which they see themselves reduced; and though they have Divisions among themselves. The 15th of last Month, Dalman Colonel of a Regiment of Bersagliers, and Nephew of Dalman the Merchant, one of the Chief of the Rebels, having offered to propose some Terms for their submitting to their lawful King, Nebot Colonel of a Regiment of Miquelets, and Brother of him who was one of the first Leaders of the Revolt in Catalonia, answered him very roughly. As they were going to draw and fight, they were parted, and put under Arrest in two different Places, by Order of the Marquis de Villaroel and the Jurats of Barcelona. The Deserters who are come out of the Place report, that the Inhabitants are making Barricades and Intrenchments in those Streets which are least incumbered by the Rubbish of ruined Houses; so place Cannon there to defend themselves if the Town should be carried by Assault. They have established a Council, and call it the Council of Conscience, in which some Monks preside, and 'tis this Tribunal that disposes of the Fortunes and Lives of those who are suspected, and their Sentences are executed without any other Form of Process, by Detachments of Miquelets who kill the Persons condemned where-ever they find them, even in their own Houses. The Besieged continue to make a great Fire from their Cannon and Mortars, without being at all sparing of their Ammunition, which they have been consuming these eleven Months to little purpose, which gives Ground to believe that they are put upon by the Artifice of their Leaders, in Order to oblige the populace to Parley when Ammunition shall come to be wanting. The 16th of June the Marquis de Guereby sent a Drummer to reclaim a Prisoner, with a Letter for the Marquis de Villaroel the Governour, in which he acquainted him that he had thought fit to give him Notice that the Marshal Duke of Berwick was approaching with an Army, and that five Battalions of French and five of Swiss were arrived: That if he doubted it, he might from the Ramparts see those 10 Battalions which were encamped on the Left of the Army, and that it was time for them to have recourse to the King of Spain's Clemency. He answered the 17th, that he was very much obliged to him for the Notice he had given him, but that he was at the Head of a Multitude of whom he was not Master, and who flattered themselves they should be able to make a good Defence, and to acquire by their Resistance the good Esteem of the Marshal Duke of Berwick and of the French. He then recommended himself to the Protection of the Marquis de Guereby, desiring him to procure for him the said Marshal's Protection likewise, and to let the Ladies and some Religious who desired to go out of the Town, pass free: But 'tis not believed that this last Article will be granted them. The Prince de Robeck, the Marquis de Crevecoeur, and the Duke d'Harve, General Officers, are arrived from Madrid, to serve in the Siege.

Paris, July 28. A Courier who set out from the Camp before Barcelona the 14th of this Month and arrived here the 2d, has brought an Account, that the the Marshal Duke of Berwick arrived there the 7th, that he immediately viewed all the Posts and the Place. The Night between the 12th and 13th he caused the Trenches to be opened on the Side towards the Sea to the East, and they were carried on within 100 Toises of the Counterscarp. The Besieged made two Sallics, but without any Success, being both times repulsed with great Loss.

From the Paris Letter, dated July 28.

Paris, July 28. 'Tis advised from the Camp before Barcelona the 9th, that the Marshal Duke of Berwick arriving there the 7th was saluted with Discharges of the Artillery: The Besieged made some Discharges of their Artillery, without Bullets, which 'tis reckoned was done to express their Joy too for the Arrival of that Marshal. The 9th at Day-break, the Marquis d'Aligre having deferred towards the South-East a great Fleet coming from Majorca, stood out to Sea to view them, and meeting in the Height of the Llobregat, they cannonaded each other till 3 the next Morning, 1 Vessel of that Fleet was sunk, 20 others taken with one of their Convoy; and the rest dispersed: However most of the Crews of the Ships taken got into the Port in small Boats, others thinking to save themselves by swimming towards the Llobregat, fell into the Hands of the Walloon Troops, who cut them to Pieces. This Fleet consisted of 43 Sail of all kinds, laden with Wine, Biscuit, Meal, Oyl, fresh and salted Meat, and all sorts of other Provisions and Ammunition; under the Convoy of four Ships armed for War. The Spanish Infantry were dismissed from the Camp, the Walloon Troops excepted, which joyed with the Cavalry will be sufficient to carry on the Siege with the French Troops; which are 20 Battalions, whereof 27 were arrived in the Camp. 'Tis advised from Port-Louis, that a Ship is arrived there from the West-India, whose Cargo is valued at three Millions.
